PRODUCTION TEXTS

MUSIC THEATRE

I Did It My Way

Frank Sinatra / Nina Simone / Ivo Van Hove / Henry Hey / Serge Aimé Coulibaly /
Lars Eidinger / Larissa Sirah Herden
World premiere

Interdisciplinary music theatre about life

Inspired by the music of Nina Simone and Frank Sinatra, I Did It My Way tells the story of a breakup between two opposites: a man who clings to the idea of love as something unchanging and a woman who embraces transformation, no matter the cost. She, a Black woman, finds her purpose in the civil rights movement, her voice rising in passion and protest. He, a white man, remains in Watertown, unable to move on. Rooted in the familiar, he retreats into nostalgia, searching for meaning in the past instead of the future. Her growth exhilarates her. He is left behind in a life that no longer fits. Their feelings unfold solely through music – duets and solos that weave together love and longing, harmony and discord, liberation and loss. I Did It My Way is inspired by the legacy of two legendary American musicians: Frank Sinatra and Nina Simone. The rising interdisciplinary artist Larissa Sirah Herden (Lary) – her latest film project was awarded with a Grimme-Preis – and Lars Eidinger, one of the most famous faces of the German theatre and film landscape, embody the conflicted couple, accompanied by four dancers and a swinging big band.

“What now my love?” (Frank Sinatra) – “Everything must change.” (Nina Simone)

Produced by Ruhrtriennale. Co-produced by Staatsoper Stuttgart and in partnership with Faso Danse Theatre.

We Are The Lucky Ones

Philip Venables / Nina Segal / Ted Huffman / Bassem Akiki / Bochumer Symphoniker
Dutch National Opera
German premiere

A song and dance of life and death

They are “The lucky ones”: A generation born in Europe between 1940 and 1949, into the aftershocks of the Second World War and the peace, economic growth and rapid globalisation that followed. Today, many of this generation are the richest and most powerful people on earth – and, arguably, responsible for a world that is in many ways worse than the one they grew up in. A world in which the prevailing hope – next generations will always do better than the previous one – is faltering, fast. Playwright Nina Segal and director Ted Huffman have assembled a mosaic portrait of a generation, based on verbatim interviews with members of this group. Composer Philip Venables has used these to create his first grand opera with sumptuous orchestral sounds and intimate arias. He turns the most important moments of individual lives into a collective collage, finding a theatrical form for the social change of recent decades, interlacing the political and the personal. Polish-Lebanese conductor Bassem Akiki will conduct the Bochumer Symphoniker. “They say, don’t they — we are a lucky generation. We are the lucky ones. Did better than our parents, most of us.” (from We Are The Lucky Ones)

Co-produced by Dutch National Opera und Ruhrtriennale.

THEATRE

Oracle

Łukasz Twarkowski / Anka Herbut / Dailes Theatre Latvia
World premiere

A theatrical multimedia exploration into Alan Turing, AI, and the dark soul of technology

Alan Turing was a pioneer of modern computer technology: he cracked the Enigma code and helped the British government to shorten the Second World War. Nonetheless, the same government persecuted him for his sexual orientation. Łukasz Twarkowski returns to Ruhrtriennale with Oracle, a multimedia theatre piece by playwright Anka Herbut. Together, they explore Turing's tragic life and legacy. Set in post-war Britain and a timeless digital realm, Oracle examines the politicization of technology. Through immersive soundscapes and cinematic projections, it blurs reality and illusion, questioning whether advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic. Visually stunning and provocative, Oracle reflects on Turing's secrets, prophetic insights, and the AI-shaped future he helped create.

„A computer would deserve to be called intelligent if it could deceive a human into believing that it was human.” (Alan Turing)

Produced by Dailes Theatre Latvia and Ruhrtriennale. Co-produced by Newerror, Comedie de Geneve, Piccolo Teatro di Milano-Teatro d'Europa.

Guernica Guernica

FC Bergman / Toneelhuis Antwerpen
World premiere

A wordless multimedia stage production about the impossibility of representing war

Inspired by Picasso's painting Guernica, theatre collective FC Bergman, Silver Lion winners at the Venice Biennale 2023, created a daring exploration of how we watch war. From raw footage to art and film, media shapes our perception, yet the spectacle confronts the impossibility of truly representing war. Do images bring us closer to reality, or alienate us? The stage becomes a war zone – part theatre, part living artwork – framed by two opposing grandstands. The innovative theatre piece Guernica Guernica works exclusively with images, music, and mass scenes. The production focuses on the threefold roles of victim, perpetrator, and ultimate the spectators. FC Bergman highlights the absurdity of war representation and critiques the commercialization of war imagery as well as societal paralysis in the face of conflict.

“Painting is not made to decorate apartments. It's an offensive and defensive weapon against the enemy.” (Pablo Picasso, 1945)

A production by FC Bergman and Toneelhuis in co-production with Ruhrtriennale and Les Théâtres de la Ville de Luxembourg.

Falaise

Camille Decourtye / Blaï Mateu Trias / Baro d'evel
German premiere

An imperturbable white horse amid the cacophony of life

It's like being catapulted into a Fellini film. Falaise, French for "cliff", is a sight to behold, raw and poetic at the same time. The Franco-Catalan theatre, dance and circus troupe Baro d'evel performs in a chaotic, crumbling scenery: Walls pierced with holes, spilling out performers in a whirlwind of constant motion. Between absurd humor and tender interactions, contradictions of human existence are revealed. A living fresco, executed in black and white, that is constantly transformed through acrobatic contortions, slapstick, animals, dance and music. With eight performers, a white horse and a flock of pigeons, Falaise is a poetic work of art about the downfall and resurrection of humanity. Suitable for families with children 10 and older, the company uses acrobatics, dance and music to show that the end of the world can also be full of beauty.

"We want our shows to take the viewer into an inner labyrinth, in a waking dream."
(Camille Decourtye and Blaï Mateu Trias)

DANCE

Delay the Sadness

Sharon Eyal / S-E-D Sharon Eyal Dance
World premiere

A story that comes from within the body

Hypnotic, sensational, magnetic and deeply sensual. You cannot stop watching. The highly skilled dancers of Sharon Eyal, express feelings that cannot be put in words. Eyal is considered one of the most important choreographers today. Her creations take us on a breathtaking journey along the emotions we face in life. Delay the Sadness is the new work by Eyal for S-E-D Dance Company, the new company founded by her and Gai Behar. Following their successful collaboration on ima for GöteborgsOperans Danskompani, Josef Laimon will compose the soundtrack for this new piece, exclusively for S-E-D.

"A continuation of life after death, a continuation of sadness and purity, a continuation of mother, emotions, memories. Remember, recall, imagine and dream." (Sharon Eyal)

A production by Sharon Eyal Dance in co-production with Ruhrtriennale, La Villette, Chaillot - théâtre national de la danse, TorinoDanza, Orsolina 28 Art Foundation, Montpellier Danse Festival, Sadler's Wells, MART Foundation, Festspielhaus St. Pölten, Théâtre Séart, Scène nationale.

Último Helecho

Nina Laisné / Francois Chaignaud / Nadia Larcher

German premiere

Celebration of Baroque styles and South American mythologies

Impressive vitality, expression and rhythms characterize the dance and music in Argentine folklore. It carries stories of the indigenous inhabitants of South America and shows traces of European cultures. Modern imperialism has pushed these traditions into the background. Laisné, Chaignaud and Larcher convey them into their artistic process. In a hypnotic mix of songs and dances they transform Baroque aesthetics and South American mythologies into a festive performance.

A production by Zorongo in collaboration with Mandorle productions. Presented by PACT Zollverein for Ruhrtriennale.

...how in salts desert is it possible to blossom...

Robyn Orlin / Garage Dance Ensemble / uKhoiKhoi

German premiere

Colourful, energetic performance about the impact of colonisation

Imagine a flower field in a desert. That is one treasure of Okiep, a former mining region that embodies the history of colonised South Africa. The inimitable, rebellious South African choreographer Robyn Orlin explores the mechanisms of violence and oppression in the area. Together with six dancers of Garage Dance Ensemble and two musicians, Orlin mixes fiction and reality, allowing the message to emerge: Everybody has the right to blossom.

A co-production of City Theater & Dance Group, Festival Montpellier Danse 2024, Festival de Marseille, Chaillot, Theatre national de la danse, Paris, Theatre Garonne, Scene europeenne, Toulouse.

Every-body-knows-what-tomorrow-brings-and-we-all-know-what-happened-yesterday

Mohamed Toukabri

German premiere

A search for autonomy

"The upside-down man", that's how the Belgo-Tunisian choreographer and dancer Mohamed Toukabri named himself in his first solo. Known for his ability to navigate between worlds – be it street and stage, hip hop and postmodernism, personal and political – Toukabri now turns his sharp choreographic eye to the very architecture of dance itself. He digs into his own body like an archaeologist, exploring the different layers of dance within him. At the same time, he tries to create an opening, a decolonization of his imagination. What responsibility do we have in what we transmit, erase, or maintain? We are all involved in the act of reimagination, and this solo is an invitation to reimagine it together.

A production by Caravan Production in co-production with Needcompany, VIERNULVIER, Charleroi Danse centre chorégraphique de Wallonie - Bruxelles, Kunstencentrum STUK, Théâtre Les Tanneurs, Concertgebouw Brugge, Beursschouwburg, Perpodium. Presented by PACT Zollverein with the support of Ruhrtriennale.

CONCERT

Rave-L Party

Maurice Ravel / Fabien Cali / Tatyana Jane / Julien Masmondet / Les Apaches ! / Gordon / Sarah Silverblatt-Buser / Alexandra R
German premiere

Ravel's Boléro as an immersive techno experience

The composer Maurice Ravel's ideal venue for his superhit Boléro was a factory. For his 150th birthday, we will make his wish come true. In the Maschinenhalle at Zeche Zweckel in Gladbeck the French collective Les Apaches ! will put the "rave" into Ravel. Between new Ravel arrangements and a recently discovered Boléro Jazz from 1929, the famous piece, among other works by Ravel, is transformed from an orchestral work into a trance-like electro trip by composer Fabien Cali. Visually, 3D-projections of dancers merge with virtual backgrounds, inviting the public to join the dance party. A Live Set by French-Cameroonian DJ Tatyana Jane continues the celebration.

A production by Nouvelle Société des Apaches in co-production with Theatre du Chatelet and the Fondation Fimenco.

before and after nature

David Lang / Tal Rosner / Florian Helgath / Bang On A Can All-Stars / CHORWERK RUHR
German premiere

A new understanding of nature in sound

"Mother Nature" is dead. Human beings have irrevocably changed nature. David Lang, one of the world's most successful avant-garde composers, has been inspired by classics of environmental literature in his latest work. Tal Rosner creates video projections especially for before and after nature, which show nostalgic images and at the same time open up new perspectives. With this concert Chorwerk Ruhr celebrates its 25th anniversary with the New York instrumental ensemble Bang on a Can All-Stars.

A Chorwerk Ruhr production for Ruhrtriennale.

124 Years of Reverb

Jonny Greenwood / Eliza McCarthy / James McVinnie
German premiere

Organ meditation by Radiohead legend in Essen's "mineworkers' cathedral"

124 Years of Reverb is an eight-hour work by the composer and Radiohead guitarist Jonny Greenwood. The organ sounds generate an enveloping sonic space that makes every corner of the church vibrate with history. The historic “mineworkers’ cathedral” hosts a communal music-meditation. Two organists will make use of the complete tonal spectrum of the 124-year-old Wilhelm Sauer organ. This is the first time that Katernberg Church will be a venue for Ruhrtriennale. Visitors can immerse themselves in this vibrant soundscape for the full duration of eight hours or in two-hour segments.

Erased Music: Tribute to Wendy Carlos

Will Gregory Moog Ensemble

Homage to a pioneer of electronic music

Wendy Carlos is one of the most significant living artists in the history of electronic music. Alongside her scores for Stanley Kubrick’s films A Clockwork Orange, The Shining and Disney’s Tron she made music history with her album Switched on Bach (1968), where she translated classical baroque music into innovative electronic sounds. This revolutionary album made her the first trans woman to win a Grammy. The festival series Erased Music focusses on musicians that have been unjustly forgotten. A “best of” her synthesizer arrangements will be presented at Turbinenhalle.

Cycles of My Being / Save the Boys

Tyshawn Sorey / Levy Sekgapane / Key’mon W. Murrah
European premiere

A genre-busting song recital

He writes songs about racism and other tough topics that reflect the reality of many Black people in the USA. Tyshawn Sorey, winner of the 2024 Pulitzer Prize for Music, is just as adept at new music as he is at jazz and finds new forms with every task he confronts. With the song cycle Cycles of My Being and the 20-minute countertenor aria Save the Boys, he takes his place among the great art song composers.

Tyshawn Sorey Trio

Tyshawn Sorey / Aaron Diehl / Harish Raghavan

Traditions reinterpreted

As a musician, Tyshawn Sorey is an all-round genius: the multi-instrumentalist, conductor and composer takes no notice of genre boundaries. His music is just as rooted in jazz and hip-hop as it is in classical music and the avantgarde. In his trio, he demonstrates that he is an exceptional drummer accompanied by pianist Aaron Diehl and bassist Harish Raghavan. Their albums contain interpretations of jazz standards, improvisations as well as new compositions.

OSMIUM

Hildur Guðnadóttir / Rully Shabara / Sam Slater / James Ginzburg

An electronic force of nature

What does a musical synthesis of nature and industry sound like? Classical strings, powerful voices and stomping rhythms collide with industrial electronic sounds. In her brand-new project OSMIUM the Oscarwinning composer and cellist Hildur Guðnadóttir meets dubstep and indonesien ethno-punk. Accompanied by a spectacular light show, OSMIUM is an electronic force of nature that defies musical genres.

Gaye Su Akyol

Feminist icon mixes post-punk and Anadolu rock

Gaye Su Akyol is one of the most exciting voices from the Bosphorus. The feminist singer and guitarist brings the unique sound of Anadolu Rock into the 21st century, fusing post-punk, grunge and pop with Anatolian folk music. Gaye Su Akyol has been hailed by publications such as the New York Times as “Turkish rock music’s biggest hope”, drawing on the psychedelic music of 1970s Turkey and folk icons such as Selda Bağcan.

High on Händel

Georg Friedrich Händel / Samuel Mariño / Jan Tomasz Adamus / Capella Cracoviensis

Sopranista from Venezuela brings queer Glamour into historically informed performances

Higher than a countertenor, rarer than a blue moon – Samuel Marino is a sopranista, a male soprano. Born in Venezuela, he captivates audiences with his ethereal voice. Conquering the repertoire of opera’s great heroines, for whom Georg Friedrich Handel composed many dazzling arias, he brings a unique presence to the stage. It’s not just his bold, gender-defying style that adds colour to his performances – the accompanying ensemble Capella Cracoviensis plays a key role: The versatile period-instrument orchestra under the baton of Jan Tomasz Adamus enriches industrial heritage venues with the sound of historical instruments.

Duisburg's inner harbour, formerly Europe's largest grain terminal, was transformed into a leisure and residential area in the 1990s with the Masterplan by architect Sir Norman Foster. The exhibition, with mostly newly created sculptural, performative and multimedia works by international artists, takes a contemporary look at the inner harbour and explores processes of invention, superimposition and failure. It establishes global connections and undertakes search movements into the future. Some of the contributions were developed as part of the programme Zu Gast bei Urbane Künste Ruhr.

A production by Urbane Künste Ruhr for Ruhrtriennale.

An explosive action painting performance with ten children and lots of paint

A group of children, lots of wax crayons, buckets of paint, and jazz – that's WASCO! Ten young performers between the ages of 7 and 13 create a world out of nothing. They dance with coloured pencils and paint brushes building a universe of their own. The result is a huge painting. In WASCO! choreographer Lisbeth Gruwez and musician Maarten Van Cauwenberghe explore for everyone aged 6 and older what music, painting and dance have in common.

A production by hetpaleis & Voetvolk in co-production with MA Scène National de Montbéliard.

GenZ Don't Cry

Sounddramaturgien-Kollektiv / Wolfgang Menardi / Mehdi Moradpour / Gïn Bali / Julia Nussbaumer
World premiere

Immersive 3D sound theatre by and about Generation Z

Challenging are the times in which the teenagers and young adults of Generation Z are starting their independent lives. At the same time, they are confronted with a whole set of prejudices: that they are lazy, demanding, over-sensitive and always on their phones. GenZ Don't Cry portrays the voices of people born between 1995 and 2010. Their thoughts can be experienced through headphones which also can be used to seal yourself off from the world and its crises. The audience itself plunges into a 3D-soundscape that is created live on stage and performed by young people from the Ruhr region. Through the ears, an immersive sound and innovative theatre experience unfolds for everyone aged 14 and older.

Produced by Ruhrtriennale.

Club Origami (Little Ears, Tiny Feet)

Makiko Aoyama / Robert Howat / Takeshi Matsumoto

A dance performance with paper art for children under 5 years and families

What looks like a blank piece of paper can, with creativity and the right technique, turn into a frog, or a flower, or even a whale! This is what makes origami, the Japanese art of paper folding, so fascinating. Together with the performers, the children create their own artworks at the beginning of the performance. These are then used to create a story entirely without words, which is performed by two dancers accompanied by live music.

Commissioned and produced by Little Big Dance.

The Sticky Dance (Little Ears, Tiny Feet)

Rosie Heafford / Takeshi Matsumoto / Second Hand Dance

A vivid and colourful performative installation for children from 3 years old and families

Three dancers move through the audience: they create space, shape areas and mark boundaries using coloured sticky tape. Each person in the audience can decide for themselves how to react to this. Either exploring the space or redesigning it with sticky tape, simply watching or grooving along: everybody gets to make their own rules. On selected dates we will offer a performance of this production for a neurodivergent audience.

Co-commissioned by The Southbank Centre and The Place and South East Dance.

Happy Sundays

A family afternoon together

On Sundays it's time to go to the theatre. Not alone, but with the whole family! While the adults are busy watching the afternoon performance, the children take part in a workshop led by a theater educator. With fun games and using a variety of methods, they explore the topics presented in the performance. As a result, the whole family engages with the performance and has a vividly memorable family Sunday.

Triennale Teens Talk II

A change of perspective

It's always exciting to have a look behind the scenes. In the second edition of this format for teenagers they enter into a direct exchange with the artists involved in a production. They get to watch, bombard them with questions and develop their own attitude and views about what they have experienced. But that's not all: under the artistic mentorship of theatremaker Meriel Brütting they will devise a performative introduction to the piece in question, enabling the audience to see the themes of the production through teenage eyes.

INFORMATION ON ACCESSIBILITY

The Ruhrtriennale is committed to making the festival accessible to as many people as possible. In close cooperation with associations, institutions, and people with disabilities, we develop measures and offers to ensure accessibility for wheelchair users, deaf and hard of hearing individuals, blind and visually impaired visitors, as well as neurodivergent people. Over time, barrier-free access in all its forms should become standard practice. You can find all the details on accessibility at ruhr3.com/barrierefrei. Most of the Ruhrtriennale venues provide ground-level access. You can find detailed information about the accessibility conditions at each venue on the website: ruhr3.com/spielorte

Hearing support

People with hearing impairments can borrow mobile inductive hearing loops free of charge for a deposit at events in the Jahrhunderthalle Bochum and Kraftzentrale Duisburg. In conjunction with a suitable hearing aid, these enable people to hear the sound on stage with amplification.

German Sign Language translation

Selected performances will be translated live into German Sign Language. You can find the schedule at ruhr3.com/barrierefrei

Audio description and haptic tour

Audio description is available for the performance of Guernica Guernica on September 20. The necessary receivers can be borrowed free of charge against a deposit. In addition, a tactile tour will be offered before this performance so that visitors can explore the stage area.

Relaxed Performances

Relaxed Performances offer art in a particularly inclusive way. At the Relaxed With... concerts at Turbinenhalle and at a performance of The Sticky Dance, we create a particularly welcoming atmosphere for people who feel uncomfortable in formal situations, enclosed spaces and with too many sensory stimuli. This includes neurodivergent people and people with disabilities or other accessibility needs.

ABOUT US

Kultur Ruhr GmbH

Kultur Ruhr GmbH in its current form was founded in 2001 and is characterized by the production and mediation of contemporary and interdisciplinary art throughout the Ruhr region. Kultur Ruhr GmbH currently consists of four independent program pillars: Ruhrtriennale, Urbane Künste Ruhr, CHORWERK RUHR and Tanzlandschaft Ruhr. A separate artistic director is appointed for each pillar of Kultur Ruhr GmbH. This gives each area its own independence in terms of content, which is also visible to the outside world. CHORWERK RUHR, PACT Zollverein and Urbane Künste Ruhr contribute to the Ruhrtriennale with artistic projects.

Ruhrtriennale

Every year, the Ruhrtriennale - the festival of the arts - invites contemporary artists to transform the imposing industrial architecture of the Ruhr region into spectacular performance venues for Music Theater, Theatre, Dance, Performance, Concerts, Installations and Visual Arts. The festival, which was launched in 2002, has international appeal and attracts a large number of visitors from Germany and abroad to the region every year. The direction of the program is largely determined by the artistic director, who is newly appointed every three years. The director of the Ruhrtriennale 2024 - 2026 is the Belgian theater and opera director Ivo Van Hove. The artistic directors of previous years were Gerard Mortier (2002 - 2004), Jürgen Flimm (2005 - 2007/extended until 2008 following the death of artistic director Marie Zimmermann), Willy Decker (2009 - 2011), Heiner Goebbels (2012 - 2014), Johan Simons (2015 - 2017), Stefanie Carp (2018 - 2020) and Barbara Frey (2021 - 2023). More information at www.ruhrtriennale.de/en.

CHORWERK RUHR – Jubilee year

CHORWERK RUHR is one of the most important chamber choirs in Germany. Founded in 1999, the vocal ensemble performed for the first time in 2000 and has firmly established itself as one of the artistic trademarks of the Ruhr region. A particular quality of the choir is its ability to meet the special requirements of small solo ensembles as well as to achieve a perfect fusion of the ensemble in a full choral sound. Since 2011, the award-winning conductor Florian Helgath has been the artistic director of CHORWERK RUHR. One focus of his work is to relate new choral music to traditional musical forms, thereby creating a new effect on the audience against the backdrop of the choir's rich musical history. The quality of the choir can also be seen in the numerous commissions and world premieres by renowned contemporary composers, which are realized in close cooperation with the partners of CHORWERK RUHR. This year, CHORWERK RUHR is celebrating its 25th concert anniversary. Further information can be found at www.chorwerkruhr.de.

The "Platform" area initiates an exchange between artists, scientists and students from different disciplines and promotes the critical questioning of their methods and results. A third focus is on a high-profile stage program consisting of premieres, co-productions and guest performances.
